

Match Play on Today in Eleventh Annual Golf Tourney at Chevy Chase Club

GOLF MATCH PLAY STARTS

Tuckerman and Finkenshaedt, Former Cup Holders, Meet in First Round Today.

By BRYAN MORSE.

Narrowed down to sixty-four golfers from a field of more than 230 to four flights, real competition is being offered today at Chevy Chase Club in the eleventh annual invitation tournament for the Taft and Sherman cups. Columbia Country Club players, eight in number; Chevy Chase men, represented by Parsons, Tuckerman and Lard; Frank Thompson, of Mississauga, yesterday's medalist; the veteran George Lyon, of Hampton Roads; S. M. Newton, of the Country Club, of Virginia, and Russell Smith, of Waverly, make up the honor sixteen.

The draw for the first flight is bringing together some sterling players. It is almost a pity that so many good golfers must be eliminated at the start.

Today's play brings W. C. Ballantine and George P. James, both of Columbia, against each other. The Canadian crack, Lyon, is meeting Guy Standifer, of Columbia, while Allan Lard, of Chevy Chase, is tackling Russell Smith, the Waverly golfer.

The lower half is top heavy. S. M. Newton, of the Country Club of Virginia, is meeting Donald Parsons, of Chevy Chase. Robert L. Finkenshaedt, 1918 winner, of Columbia, is tackling Walter R. Tuckerman, of the home club, last year's titleholder. Donald Woodward, of Columbia, is playing Frank Thompson, of Mississauga, yesterday's medalist. Harold E. Doyle and A. R. MacKenzie, of Columbia, are fighting it out, while Dr. L. L. Eakman, who won the Taft Cup in 1914, is playing with J. S. McKennimen, of Hampton Roads.

Frank Thompson, the youthful Mississauga golfer, after a miserable start, shot 76 in the medal round yesterday, just one stroke better than S. M. Newton, the Virginian. Thompson equaled the course competitive record.

Off to a miserable start with 6, 4 and 5 for the first three holes, Thompson played splendid golf for his 75. The youngster shot six 5's, four 4's and five 3's. His drives were spectacular for length, and it required from all golfers all they had to produce distance.

The sluggers got a decided edge yesterday, as the course gave little or nothing in the way of carry on the fairway. The sun brought up considerable moisture and the greens were as smooth as billiard cloth.

Today Finkenshaedt and Tuckerman are expected to produce the feature match. Woodward and Thompson are likely to stage a great while Lard can be counted upon to force Smith all the way.

The four sixteens qualified with the totals for medal play and today's drawing follows:

First sixteen—W. C. Ballantine (Col.), 50, vs. George P. James (Col.), 52; George D. Lyon (Tor.), 52, vs. Guy Standifer (Col.), 51; Allan Lard (C. C.), 53, vs. Russell Smith (Waverly), 75; S. M.
